THE "RAPID,"
A DOUBLE-ACTION ICE-CREAM FREEZER,
Is the result of a careful study of the requirements of an efficient, durable and economical Freezer. The principles of its construction present the following meritorious points: Double action of the can and beater; these revolving at high speed in opposite directions, gives the desired result with much saving of time and labor. The acceptable form of the beater, producing a very smooth quality of Ice-Cream and, by aeration, increasing its bulk two-fold. An improved "scraper" which, adjusting itself automatically, to the side of the can, thoroughly removes the frozen cream adhering thereto, the same being replaced by the less frozen portion transferred from the centre by the action of the beater. The enlarged capacity of the can is guaranteed to hold fully five per cent. more than the quantity designated.

The Use of Cement Pipe for Sewers.
The following veto was filed with City Clerk Geary yesterday afternoon:
To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Utica:
The following action of your honorable body Friday evening, Apr 12, 1886, is hereby returned without my approval. (Here is given at length the resolution adopted by the Council providing for a cement sewer in Albany street.)
The sewerage of our city is a very important matter, both from a sanitary and financial standpoint. Our City Surveyor, who is thoroughly competent to judge, has recommended vitrified sewer pipe as the cheapest, safest and best. Since this question was brought before the Council I have received over thirty letters from surveyors and engineers of different cities unanimously testifying to the superiority of this pipe, and stating that it is now universally used throughout the country.
Then why does the Council insist on putting down cement?
Some Aldermen say the people petition for it—there is some force in that I admit—but are they the only parties interested in this matter? When the sewers prove defective (as they are doing continually) the city, and not the people must foot the bills.
And are we to pay any attention to the wail that was dinned into our ears last fall about the sewer gas in the cellars and houses of our citizens? I think we should. If these evils are to be remedied the city should have a voice in the choice of pipe, and I claim should accept the advice of its Surveyor as having had the most experience in such matters.
The only real argument that has been or can be made in favor of the cement pipe we are now using is that it is manufactured here, and a prominent politician is interested in its sale.
It seems to me this is not forcible enough to justify jeopardizing the lives of our citizens through defective sewerage, and the depletion of their pockets in trying to maintain a system with inferior pipe. This is too expensive and dangerous a monopoly for this Council to encourage or maintain.
THOMAS E. KENNEY, Mayor.

Cement Sewer Pipe.
OSHKOSH, Oct. 29, 1884.—For the information of those who are misled concerning Cement Sewer-pipe, I wish to state that such sewer pipe is being very extensively manufactured and used in the State of Wisconsin, and is preferred to vitrified. First, for its great strength and durability, it being from one-third to one-half stronger, and less liable to crush in the ditch. Being solidly packed, in making, between iron moulds, it becomes impervious to water or acids, and, if one of these pipes, such as made in Wisconsin, is cemented tight at one end and filled with water, the water will stay there until it evaporates, which shows that it does not filter through. The older this pipe gets, the harder and more rock-like it becomes. Second, this pipe is preferred to all others on account of its shape. The larger sizes are egg-shape, contracting the flow in a narrow channel at the bottom, increasing its velocity, keeping it clean and at the same time having a large area above for a larger volume of water when needed. It also has a flat base, which makes it lay firm in the ditch, keeping it in shape, while a round pipe is more liable to roll and get out of shape, either in the filling or settling of the ditch. Cement pipe has been used for sewers in England and various parts of the old world for over one hundred years, and has proved indestructible; either by the action of sewage or time, and is still very extensively used in London and various other European cities. Brooklyn, N. Y., has over fifty miles of cement pipe sewers, laid from twenty to forty years ago, and still giving perfect satisfaction. Query: Why is cement used in brick sewers, and plastered all over the interior surface? Simply because sewage will not go through it to be filtered through the porous brick. Yours respectfully, C. B. HEWITT.

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.
After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.
Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.
Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis.

Androscoggin.

The apiary of a Lewiston bee-lover yielded recently, in five days, one hundred and fifteen pounds of honey. Two of the days were so rainy that the bees could not work, leaving but three working-days.

Another Lewiston man has recovered ten dollars from the Forepaugh management. He represented his case at Waterville, last Friday, and the money was returned to him. It now appears that an Auburn man lost $30 by the "flim-flam" game so successfully worked here.

One of the best anglers in Auburn, is a lady. Now and then she and her husband go fishing in a brook of which they claim the original discovery and proprietorship. The lady has fished it eleven years and her husband eight years. It is not determined in the board whether or not the lapse of three years in her favor were years of maidenly angling in which she caught, not only trout but a husband. The other day, husband and wife went fishing in the brook as has become a custom sacredly observed at least once a year. Out of the total catch of forty trout, he caught eleven and she, the better angler, twenty-nine.

Sunday afternoon, Eddie Austin, Bennie Cramm, Willie Smith and Bert Plant, four boys whose ages rank from twelve to sixteen years, while taking a boat ride on the Androscoggin, having nearly reached Otis Falls, where the current is very swift, they struck a rock, and endeavoring to turn around the boat capsized, and its occupants were dumped into the water. The boys clung to the boat, which was slowly propelled to the shore and all reached land in safety, although considerably exhausted. In response to their cries for help, some persons on the shore hastened to the rescue with another boat, but it did not arrive until the boys were safely landed.

The 32d Maine will hold a reunion at one of the islands in Portland harbor August 25th. Members are requested to address Frank Stanley, Dixfield.

William Maylor, a carpenter, was at work on a barn at Saccarappa, Thursday, when he lost his balance and fell to the ground a distance of fifty feet. He had no bones broken, but was injured internally. It is thought he will recover.

In the heavy shower Monday afternoon there was a serious land slide at the foot of Emery street, Portland, burying the Boston & Maine railroad tracks to a depth of several feet. A gang of twenty or thirty men was immediately set to work repairing the damage.

Three happy sailors from the war ships were rolling down Commercial street, Portland, Monday morning, apparently delighted in the possession of a pasteboard box, which one of them carefully carried. They were questioned as to what the box contained, when they opened it, showing a common pigeon, which they had just bought of a boy, who represented it to be an "Irish canary," paying $2 for it. When last seen they were making their way towards the ship with their treasure.

Mr. Isaac L. Johnson, one of the selectmen of the town of Gorham, while leading a bull into the barn, was suddenly dragged into the yard by the animal and thrown down and gored by the horns of the beast. Calling for help, his son, aged ten years, with a courage and judgment rare in a child, made such a vigorous attack with a pitchfork that Mr. Johnson was able to get upon his feet and at length to subdue the brute. Mr. Johnson, although badly bruised, is able to be about.

Franklin.

Rev. Horace W. Tilden, of Hyde Park, Mass., formerly of Augusta, has been invited by the Baptist church in Farmington to pass his vacation in that town, supplying their pulpit. Mr. Tilden has signified his acceptance of the invitation, and will be in Farmington during the month of August.

Kennebec.

Mr. Thomas Shanahan, Jr., contractor for the building of the Augusta Water Works reservoir, arrived in that city Monday, and begins work at once.

A scrap of history of Wayne, fifty years ago, is furnished the Winthrop Budget by the recollections of Mr. Seth Maxim, who spent the first half of his life in Wayne. About that time there was considerable excitement in temperance reform and also a great religious interest at the same time. Twenty-seven young men banded themselves together to oppose both the religions and temperance movements. One of these young men was hired by George Smith to break up one of these religious meetings, but without success. Unable to get a room to hold their meetings, they built a tent on Thomas Weeks' point by the pond, and there they held their ollifications. But their remaining history is a strange and sad one. Four of their number were drowned; three committed suicide; two were hung in the Southern States; seven were lost at sea, and the remaining eleven all died drunkards, some of them suffering terrible horrors with delirium tremens.

Sagadahoc.

The keel is being got out for the large steamer to be built at the New England Company's yard at Bath, for the Portland and New York line.

York.

A wrecking train from Salem, having on board Mr. Bissell, master of maintenance of way of the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad, and Roadmaster Stevens, came last Sunday afternoon. Two and one half miles of track between Kennebunk and Wells Crossing, had been reported disabled and in need of relaying. All the section men that could be mustered went on board the train. Inquiries by a reporter disclosed the fact that the damage referred to consisted of dents and depressions in almost every rail of two miles of track between the points indicated. The rails are bent as though they had each been treated to a severe blow from a monster pile-driver. In some places they are said to be bent several inches from the regular level. Various theories were advanced, among others that of a broken wheel, but all were finally abandoned as untenable.

The painted windows in the Scotch Church, Rue Bayard, Paris, have been maliciously destroyed. Several pieces of iron, an inch square, were thrown against the glass in the night with such force that some of them were found near the pulpit, at the other end of the church, while the shattered glass was scattered over the gallery, the seats and floor. The windows cost about £500, and were given by Americans in memory of friends who had died in Paris.

It is suspected that he has gone to Lisbon with the pretty family washerwoman, to whom he was passionately attached. The parents of this embryo Don Juan are desolate, and the Spanish police are seeking him everywhere in vain. His name is withheld from the public.

A Baseball Game in Japan.

QUEER RULINGS OF A BLACK-EYED UMPIRE—THE FIRST AND LAST JAPANESE-AMERICAN GAME ENDS IN A RACE ACROSS COUNTRY.

It may seem strange to the free-born American citizen that there should be any intellect unable to grasp the intricacies of the game of baseball. Sometimes, it is true, the feminine mind—not having had the necessary co-educational advantages—is unable to seize the fine points of "double plays," or to recognize an "error" at sight. The tale that a sun-browned spectator poured into the ears of a reporter at the Polo Grounds the other day, would seem to indicate, however, that there are whole races so constructed mentally as to fail in appreciation of the true inwardness of the game. The stranger, whose mahogany-colored skin, broad-brimmed hat of finest straw, and light clothing of unconventional cut, gave him a semi-oriental air, had been warmed up to enthusiasm by a sharply contested game of ten innings. When it was over and the catcher had removed his mask and liver pad, this tanned spectator with the Eastern air grew communicative.

"That was a good game," said he, "but there wasn't half the fun in it that there was in the last one I played. I've been in Japan for the last ten years, and baseball players, professional or collegiate, are not as important members of society there as in this country. One of my schoolmates, who emigrated to Japan with me, went to teaching school and soon built up quite a little academy back in the centre of the island. The Japs make the most dutiful of schoolboys, but they're not gregarious in their sports, and my friend thought it might promote the true schoolboy spirit if they learned the fascinations of baseball. He labored long and faithfully with them. A full set of rules, including that important one about not throwing beer glasses at the umpire, were translated into purest Japanese and the bow-legged little followers of Confucius practised throwing curves and stopping hot liners. When he thought his nine was sufficiently trained he wrote to me in Yokohama, asking me to get up another nine among the American clerks there and come out for a little international game. I used to play 'one old cat' down in the meadow lot in old Connecticut, on the days we forgot to go to school as well as a more pretentious variety of the game known as 'one, two, three.' This last we played on the village green at recess—that precious fifteen minutes of liberty which brightens every three hours' confinement in a hot schoolroom. So, you see, I was pretty well up on the old-fashioned game, though these new fangled rules would have been too much for me, and I easily got together a nine to go and play the youthful Japs.

"That was a great game. It was equally the first and last of the international championship series, and as it ended in a somewhat riotous and wholly indecisive manner, the question of baseball supremacy has yet to be fought out between the Oriental and Occidental civilization. The umpire was a Jap, who spoke no English. That was the first difficulty under which we labored. When a disputed point arose, the whole of the other nine would splutter classic Japanese at him by the yard, evidently quoting all the fathers from Confucius down; while our good old Anglo-Saxon expletives were lost on him. This with the fact that my men were rusty and rather out of trim for running, soon put us on the wrong side of the tally sheet. Matters grew worse until in the fourth inning, when I hit upon a bright idea. I knocked a grounder and started for first-base at my best stop-that-car speed. The fat little shortstop fell on the ball in his usual haphazard but lucky fashion, picked it up and let drive at Sumi Toko, the blackeyed first baseman. Sumi caught it like a little man and stood squarely in my path with his artless Japanese smile and the ball. Acting under a sudden inspiration I dodged to the left, executed a flank movement, and reached the base before Sumi realized the situation. Then there was a hubbub. The almond-eyed Japanese umpire stood to his guns, however. He said that I had reached the base without being touched and was therefore safe according to all law and precedent. My men were so convulsed with laughter that the next one who came to the bat, knocked a feeble 'daisy cutter' into the second baseman's hands and then ran me off my base. I started for second, however, fully determined to steal that base if Yankee ingenuity could do it. Sumi, the blackeyed first basemen, was hot upon my trail. I dodged to the right, but the second baseman was prepared and headed me off.

"Finally, I outmanœuvred him and got between him and the base. But a new difficulty awaited me. The centre fielder had played up in good shape and covered the base. The ball was thrown to him by the now breathless baseman and I was again headed off. I circled about in the hope of luring the fielder from the base and succeeded. But this profited me nothing, for by that time the whole Japanese nine was gathered around that base in a state bordering on insanity. After two or three revolutions, in my orbit I broke away for a neighboring rice field with the whole nine at my heels and the umpire running along to see fair play. Finally laughter and an unseen obstacle brought me to the ground. The center fielder jumped upon me and pounded me triumphantly with the ball while the umpire officially, and with as much solemnity as his lack of breath permitted, declared me 'out.' That broke up the game. My men were fairly doubled up with laughter and my friend, the schoolmaster, raged up and down, filled with scorn and wrath against his unfortunate pupils, into whose heads he had labored three months to inculcate the principles of base ball, with this ludicrous result. He sent them home in disgrace and kept them after school every day for a week until the bitterness of failure was forgotten."

Raining Fish.

THE SCALY SHOWER IN NEBRASKA—SCOOPED UP BY A TORNADO.

On the 14th of June last, the people of Harvard, a town in Clay county, Nebraska, were startled by a rain storm, which was accompanied by a fall of fishes, apparently from the sky. These fishes, which were alive, fell in large quantities. Many of them were picked up by residents of the place and preserved in aquaria or in alcohol. Mr. May, fish commissioner of the State of Nebraska, happening to be in the neighborhood of Harvard, secured some of the fishes, and as he had business with Prof. Baird, brought the fish with him to Washington for the purpose of having their identity fixed. A reporter inspected the fish the other day in Dr. Tarleton H. Bean's laboratory, next the Smithsonian. There were half a dozen young fish, about an inch and a half in length each, preserved in alcohol.

"We often hear of its raining fishes," said Dr. Bean. "This is a case about which there is no doubt, and which proves that the stories about showers of fish are not mythical. I am glad that we have had opportunity, not only to prove the fact that fishes are rained down, but to investigate and explain what appears to be out of the natural order of things. These fish prove to be a common species in that region—the fat head or black head minnow. How did they come to fall from the clouds? The explanation is simple. They had been taken up from a stream or pond by a tornado and carried through the air until the force of gravity, or the rain storm overcame the lateral motion and they descended with rain to the ground. As the fish were alive it is probable that they came from a stream near the town. A tornado though, would take a quantity of water up in a mass, and the fish might be carried some distance alive. These minnows are hardy, and can live under most precarious circumstances. They live in sluggish streams and have been found in water having a large percentage of salt. We had one that came from an artesian well, so they probably adapt themselves to subterranean streams. In fact they seem to adapt themselves to almost any conditions, and hence it is not surprising that they have a very wide range, or distribution.

"This theory of tornado action," continued the doctor, "explains the distribution of some species of fish over regions sometimes separated by natural obstacles, and which cannot easily be accounted for otherwise. The young fish are carried through the air and deposited in other streams. This theory is more important when we consider that many regions which have no tornado action now may have had it in earlier periods. Fish of exactly the same species will be found in places far distant from each other. The long-nose sucker common here is found in Alaska. The round whitefish or shadwaiter of the New Hampshire lakes is found in the Yukon river in Alaska, and also in the Island of Kodiak, sixty miles from the shore. The little fish known as silversides, the brook silversides, has been known for years in the Ohio and Mississippi valley. Lately it has been found in North Carolina and Florida in an entirely different water system, separated by a mountain chain from its original habitat.

Other instances of a similar character could be mentioned and need an explanation, which is afforded by the now established fact that fishes are transported by tornadoes. Might not the tornado be a valuable auxiliary to the fish commission?" continued Dr. Bean, with a smile, repeating the question of the reporter. "Well, I am afraid it would be like a bull in a china shop. If we could only harness the tornado, now, it might be of some service. It is a wonder that this theory of cyclone action as an agent in the distribution of species has not received more attention. It has scarcely been mentioned, except by Dr. Stearns."

Dr. Robert E. C. Stearns, in a paper on fossil shells of the Colorado desert, in mentioning agencies and methods of distribution, speaks of tornadoes and waterspouts acting as distributing agents, taking up the waters of lakes and streams and transporting them with their contents many miles.

L W DRAKE, — County
FRANK C BARKER, — Committee
G F DILLINGHAM,
F M SIMPSON,

The First Indiana Congressional District Convention has followed the party fashion in that State and split. This makes four districts in which there is a Democratic division.

The report that the Hon. Wm. Henry Clifford is to have the Solicitor Generalship is denied. It would be a shame to deprive the Maine Democracy of the services of this horny-fisted son of toil in the coming campaign.

A writer in the New York Sun laments: 'Say what you will, the Administration is not a success. Mr. Cleveland has had no policy except the next Presidential election and the present aggrandizement of his adherents." Not a flattering picture surely, coming as it does from a Democratic standpoint.

The Canadians have even gone so far in their outrageous policy as to refuse to deliver mail to our fishermen who are in their harbors. And yet Secretary Bayard continues to sulk in his office like a school boy because the American people will not accept his suggestion for a commission The Boston Record well says "O for a man not a dummy!"

The silly season has opened rather earlier than usual in the Commercial office. —Whig.

There is no "close time" on silliness in the WHIG office The season is "on" there from Jan. 1st to Dec. 31st.—Commercial

The WHIG manages to get through the season just the same without stultifying itself as the Commercial has in its ridiculous performance with Chairman Brown. Neither is it repudiated by its party or denounced as a traitor unworthy of the confidence of party associates.

The Commercial indulges in some facetious remarks about the "alleged American Navy," but the subject is one it is hardly in condition to discuss. The Naval Committee in consultation with the Democratic Administration prepared a bill to place our navy on a respectable footing, but the Democratic leaders in the House, with a view of posing as economists, insisted that the appropriation be cut down one-half and the Democratic majority on the committee promptly accepted the mandate, while the Republican members opposed it and will contest the reduction in the House. Our contemporary should not ridicule what its party refuses to remedy.

Mr. Clifford informs the President that it will cost the Republicans more than they have ever expended before to carry Maine by their usual majority this fall. It will be seen by this that Mr. Clifford regards the election of Mr. Bodwell as a foregone conclusion and intends to devote his distinguished services to keeping the Republican majority down The Republicans of Maine were never in better condition to meet the enemy than they are this year The party is a unit and every man proposes to take his coat off and labor for the success of the ticket. Nothing will be left to chance. Those Democrats who are counting on the over confidence of the Republicans as likely to help their cause will be most effectually disappointed. This is to be a working campaign and every man will put his shoulder to the wheel.

The Bangor Commercial declares that what the revenue reformers are trying to do is to protect American labor. Nothing could be further from the truth than this statement. Mr Morrison is generally regarded as the leader of the revenue reform, or, more properly speaking, the free trade majority of the Democratic party. For months he labored on the preparation of a bill, the effects of which would have been so disastrous to the labor interests of this country that large delegations of working men went to Washington for the express purpose of antagonizing it, and so determined was this opposition that the House refused even to consider the bill when it was called up by its author. It is interesting to note, however that the Democratic press of this State are the out-spoken champions of this free trade measure. Let the workingmen make a minute of this fact for future reference.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald accuses the Democratic leaders in the House of a conspiracy to thwart the President in all of his suggestions. The writer calls attention to the various recommendations made by the President which have been quietly set aside by Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison and Randall who have practical control of all legislation. Editorially the Herald says:

But Mr. Cleveland has himself largely to blame. When early in January he announced that he "had not the slightest wish or desire to influence the consideration of measures by Congress" except by his official messages, he invited the contempt with which the House, under the management of the Speaker and his two adjutants, has treated him.

This humiliating estrangement between the President and his party during the first year and a half of the first Democratic administration for a quarter of a century is not in the nature of a first class recommendation for a continuance of Democratic rule.

An interesting question is raised as to the action of the California Legislature in the election of a successor to the late Senator Miller, whose seat in the Senate was temporarily filled by the appointment of Mr. Hearst. Governor Stoneman has ordered a special session of the Legislature to convene in a few days. By the State constitution he can inform it as to what subjects it is to consider, and can restrict it to those subjects. Therefore, by the State constitution, they cannot elect a successor to the late Senator Miller. But the federal constitution expressly states that a successor to a deceased or resigned member of the United States Senate must be elected "at the next meeting of the Legislature," which not only authorizes but commands the election of Mr. Miller's successor at this special session. The California Legislature is at present Republican in complexion, while the Governor is Democratic. They may and probably will decide to elect whereupon the Governor may refuse to sign the certificate of election. But by Article I, Section 5, of the Constitution, the United States Senate will be the judge of his election and may assign him to his seat.

The Democratic Administration will maintain the honor and the dignity of the country and protect the interests of all its citizens, fishermen included.—Commercial.

Our contemporary is still harping on the old strain. It should remember, however, that the fishermen are not at all interested in the promises of Democratic organs, or platforms. They have laid their case, and it is a good one, before the Secretary of State, but that high official instead of affording them the protection which our contemporary is so free to promise for him, deliberately insults them. He charges them with insincerity and cowardice, but utters never a word of condemnation for the contemptible insults heaped upon the American people by the Canadian authorities. Had Mr Bayard been a representative of the British Government his course would hardly have been in more marked opposition to the interests of our fishermen than it now is. When so influential a Democratic paper as the Boston Globe arraigns the Administration for its do nothing policy, it is useless for the Commercial to try and distract public attention by a weak blast on its penny trumpet.

Carl Schurz, the apostle of reform of the Mugwump variety, in commenting upon Attorney General Garland's telephone transactions, the most scandalous intrigue that ever disgraced a member of the Cabinet, says:

It is not my thought at all that Mr. Garland is anything more than unfortunate. I can imagine how he was drawn in this Pan-Electric matter. I do not think that he had any appreciation of the fact that the speculation was one of millions. I am inclined to think rather that he thought he was getting a few hundred dollars' worth of stock for his legal service, and that it was only a modest Arkansas fee that was given him I can remember how it was with the great Credit Mobilier affair, that there were men who saw their associates making money, and they thought they could make some too.

Had Mr. Garland been a member of a Republican Cabinet Shurz would howl himself hoarse in denouncing his corruption of a high office, but being a reformer of the Cleveland-Schurz stripe he can see nothing but a mere misfortune in this prostitution of his official position. When he was Governor of New York the Times declared that Mr. Cleveland was a "low priced reformer", and the term is equally applicable to the entire Mugwump contingent

The Maine Campaign.

[Philadelphia Press.]

The campaign in Maine this year will be a short one, not exceeding four weeks in duration, but what it lacks in length will be made up in fervor. Mr. Blaine, it is reported, will make the first speech at Portland, August 10 Senators Sherman, Logan, Hoar and Allison and Congressmen Burrows, Grosvenor, McKinley and Hiscock are expected to be on the stump during the canvass together with Governor Foraker and ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio The Democrats have drafted Senator Voorhees, Congressman Randall and General Cary There is nothing to show that the Democratic prospects are better than they have been in recent years. The possession of the federal patronage has not harmonized them and the hope of getting a portion of the soldier vote by nominating a man who called the Grand Army a "lot of bummers" has vanished On the other hand, the Republicans are thoroughly organized and harmonious and they will begin the canvass confident of adding another victory to their long score.

The President and His Party.

[Wash Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean

There is a most extraordinary situation here, and if we were in England instead of the United States you would see the President and all his ministers throwing down their portfolios and appealing to the people The Democratic House of Representatives on Wednesday declared their lack of confidence in the ability and judgment of the President to administer the affairs of the government, and passed a bill by a vote of 207 to 67 directing him to do what he has declared to be unwise and unsafe. With one exception the only defenders the President's policy found were on the Republican side, and we were treated to a scene that has been several times witnessed this session—the Republican Congressmen upholding a Democratic President against his own party.

There were only fourteen Democrats who voted against Morrison's bill to expend the surplus in the Treasury in the purchase of bonds. Only fourteen Democrats who concede the wisdom of the policy of the President they elected—fourteen out of 183. Of those nine are from New York City, two from Connecticut, and one each from Massachusetts, Maryland and South Carolina. Old politicians in Washington say that there never has been a similar spectacle since the foundation of the Government, and we have had some curious incidents in our civil history.

But it is tit for tat. The President is about as free and frank in voting a lack of confidence in Congress. He has vetoed nearly one hundred bills, and when he has vetoed ten more, as he undoubtedly will before the end of the session, he will close the first legislative year of his administration with more vetoes over his signature than all of the Presidents that have preceded him combined. Senator Platt has introduced a resolution for the publication of all the Presidential vetoes since the organization of the government in one volume. One-half of the book will be devoted to Grover Cleveland.

I was sitting with a group of Democratic Senators the other day. Two of them were conspicuous leaders in the party; both are credited with wisdom, and were prominent in legislative and political circles before President Cleveland was canvassing Buffalo for the office of Sheriff. It was a private confab, and it wouldn't be decent to mention their names. One of them alluded to the President as the American Mikado, and said that he had set up to be the greatest autocrat the present century had seen.

"He comes to Washington," continued this Democratic leader, "an obscure and inexperienced man. There are those in Congress who have spent years in the study of public questions where he has spent weeks, and he assumes to be inspired with more knowledge and wisdom than all the members of his Cabinet and both Houses of Congress combined. He treats his Ministers as if they were children, and scolds Congress as if it were composed of a lot of school-boys, and he is a pedagogue set up to hear them recite their lessons. He appears to have no confidence in anybody but himself. He consults with nobody, admits no one but Dan Lamont to his councils, and turns his back upon the leaders of the party. He repudiates nearly every man who assisted to elect him, and when he wants advice he calls in some personal friend instead of seeking counsel from the leaders of his party. There was never such a case on record.

"Even John Tyler and Andrew Johnson had some political advisers. And it is not only in matters of administrative policy and legislation, but in matters of appointment, that the President repudiates his party and its Representatives in Congress. There are seven Democratic Congressmen from Michigan. No man they have recommended has been appointed to office, but Don M. Dickinson, who represents nobody but himself has been allowed to deal out the patronage to his friends, and the same is the case all over the country. The Senators and Representatives elected and sent here by the people to look after their interests are shoved aside, and the President either acts upon his own individual judgment or on that of some irresponsible citizen who represents nothing and nobody. Is there any wonder that the House of Representatives should pass a vote of censure upon the Administration? They express the views of the people. Grover Cleveland was elected President of the United States He wasn't crowned and throned like an autocrat."

"The leading Democrats feel more deeply the slights the President has put upon them than they are willing to admit. In the face of the fall elections, and the hope of securing a few morsels of patronage, they are striving to suppress their indignation, but if the Republicans should win in the next campaign there will be an open revolt.

A Pen Portrait.

[From the New York Sun]

The effects of megalomania are often grotesque in the extreme. The victim may be a pigmy, but he struts like a Brobdingnagian King He may be morally as ugly as sin, but he fancies himself Adonis. He may be intellectually humpbacked, chicken-breasted, pot-bellied, knock-kneed, and shamble-shanked, but to his own view he is the Apollo Belvidere. His five-cent goings and comings on the elevated railroad or in the horse cars have the importance of the movements of armies. The commonplaces of his mind assume the dignity of solemn world truths. If he happens to be the editor of a newspaper read by from six to eight thousand people, he fancies that he is preaching to a nation and moulding public opinion. If he cherishes a whim or a hobby, it has to him the sanctity of a sublime system of religious faith, and he really believes that those who laugh at it are immoral. His deliverances on all questions, his judgments of men and matters, are pronounced with a gravity suited to the unanimous decisions of the full bench of the United States Supreme Court. Fortunately, he has not the power to punish for contempt. If he had it, the entire community would be incarcerated and he would walk alone the streets of a deserted town. Fortunately, also, cases of true megalomania are rare If they were many, life would be so disagreeable that the sane members of society would probably hunt out the megalomaniacs and lynch them.

Such, we believe, is a philosophical explanation of the trouble with which Mr. E. L Godkin of the Evening Post newspaper is suffering. The same trouble is sometimes vulgarly known as "swelled head"

From George R Barker, Commander of "J. Knowles Post," G A R, Corinna, Me

A M Robinson, Jr.:

Dear Sir: My wife has been a great sufferer from sick headaches since she was 12 years of age. She has tried almost everything for them; but received only little benefit until she commenced taking Bell's Sarsaparilla. For the past seven years she has not felt safe to leave home at any time for a whole day for fear of the headache coming on. She used only two bottles, and has not had an attack for months I send you this statement, hoping it may be the cause of others being cured of this distressing disease by your valuable remedy. BUSINESS TROUBLE.

Suspension of the Canton Lumber Company.

PORTLAND, July 21. The Canton Lumber Company has temporarily suspended. The company is indebted to the Merchants' Bank, of this city, and they have a title to some of the more valuable of their property. The bank failing to receive satisfactory payments attached the company's property at Canton. Mr. Mann, the manager of the company, was in the city Tuesday and was informed by the bank that when a settlement was made that was satisfactory they would remove the attachment. Mr. Mann was very sanguine that an arrangement could be made by which it would be possible to present such a statement. In that case, as far as the bank is concerned, the company's suspension will be but temporary. The property of the company is estimated from $50,000 to $60,000.

FROM LEWISTON

Suffocated by Coal Gas.

LEWISTON, July 21. Joel Coolidge, of Livermore, aged sixty, on Monday night built a charcoal fire, closed the drafts and retired. Tuesday morning he was found dead and the room full of gas. The act was probably intentional.

The Dental Convention.

In the dental convention this morning Dr. Fales, of Waterville, read a paper on exposed pulps. Dr. …con read a paper on Riggs' disease. This subject was discussed by Drs. Fillebrown, Gilmore, Mayo and Bacon. The officers elected were: President, D. W. Fellows, Portland; Vice President, B. K. Hardy, Farmington; Secretary, O. B. Bunn, Portland; Treasurer, F. I. Roberts, Augusta; Librarian, J. W. …, Brunswick; Executive Committee, … Bryant of Pittsfield, G. U. Twitchell of …, C. D. Sawyer of Dexter, C. V. Richards of Skowhegan, and K. W. …ley of Richmond. The next meeting was appointed at Waterville.

The Lewiston Mills.

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Lewiston mills this afternoon all the stock was represented. It was voted that the Lewiston mill make a voluntary assignment of all its property for the benefit of its creditors to Messrs. Raynond, … and M… In the event that the assignment … to accept the trusteeship within … it was voted that the Treasurer be instructed to open proceedings in the Insolvency Court. It is understood that the alternative was passed to meet the contingency of the Merchants' National Bank of Boston declining to withdraw its attachment.

FROM FARMINGTON.

Two Men Drowned—Fatal Attempt at Rescue

FARMINGTON, July 2[illegible]. Thomas Vachon, … 22 years of age, and Charles …, 22 years, were drowned in North Pond, Wilton, yesterday afternoon. Vachon got beyond his depth and called for help and … went to his aid, when in the struggle both sank. The bodies were recovered.

FROM MARANACOOK

General Manager Tucker Entertains.

LAKE MARANACOOK, July 21. General Manager Payson Tucker of the Maine Central Railroad tendered a party of over one hundred a complimentary excursion … to-day. They arrived on a special from Portland. Among the number are … prominent in railroad, political and social circles, with ladies. Chandler's band and orchestra, of Portland, accompanied the party and gave a concert in the grove. A big dinner was served by Caterer Swan, and the day was spent in various amusements.

FROM BAR HARBOR.

Yachting Items of Interest.

BAR HARBOR, July 21. Steam yacht Sappho, Dr. Webb of New York, left at 10 A. M. bound for Lake Champlain. No one except the officers and crew are on board. The steam yacht Oneida, Eugene … of Boston, will remain two or three days. The steam launch Lucille Wright of Duxbury, Mass., arrived last night with M. Wright on board. Other yachts in the harbor are Hon. Alpheus Hardy's …, Rev. F. G. Peabody's … and the schooner yachts Hope and …

The steam yacht Stranger arrived at four … in the harbor.

Up Green Mountain.

The New Hampshire Club took the Green Mountain trip to-day.

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

The Tenure of Office Act

WASHINGTON, July 21. Senator Hoar from the Committee on the Judiciary, to-day reported favorably the bill to repeal the tenure of office act. The repeal is not, however, to affect any officers heretofore appointed under the provisions of said … or any designation, nomination, or appointment here… made by virtue of the provisions thereof.

Nominations by the President.

The President sent the following nominations to the Senate to-day: Jeremiah W. Coveney, to be Surveyor of Customs for the districts of Boston and Charlestown, Mass.; Eugene Potter Stone of Massachusetts, to be Assistant Surgeon in the Navy.

STEAMER GATE CITY.

She Lies Easy and Her Cargo Will be Saved.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 21. The Gate City remains in the same position. Her cargo consists of watermelons and other southern produce, which will be reshipped to Boston via Wood's Holl. There was smooth water in Vineyard Sound during last night and this morning, offering good opportunity to save the cargo.

A Compliment to the Officers.

CONCORD, N. H., July 21. The following statement was signed by all the passengers from the stranded Gate City on the … from New Bedford for Boston, on Monday. The original document is in possession of Charles M. Gilbert, of Savannah, Ga., now in this city, who will send it to Captain Hedge of the unfortunate steamer.

"We, the undersigned, passengers per steamship Gate City from Savannah to Boston, desire to express our sympathy to Capt. Hedge and his officers in the late accident, for which we can attach no blame to them, as they were diligently attending to their duties. We also extend our thanks to the company and its officers for the care taken of us after the accident."

THE ANARCHISTS' TRIAL.

Where the Bombs were Made.

CHICAGO, July 21. In the anarchists' trial to-day William Seliger testified that Louis Lingg boarded with him and that he (witness) worked on a number of bombs and put them in order. He saw dynamite in Lingg's room, and the latter told him the bombs were fodder for capitalists and that there was to be an agitation. He wanted the bombs completed by Tuesday evening, as they were to be used that night. Witness, with Lingg in a small trunk. They were all loaded with dynamite and had caps to explode them. They were carried to Neff's hall on Clybourn avenue.

They took a trunk full of bombs into the hallway where the trunk was opened. Witness and several others helped themselves to bombs and put them in their pockets. A disturbance was to be created on the north side that night, and it was at various other points to prevent the police from massing. When the patrol wagon passed them in the street Lingg wanted to throw a bomb into the wagon, but witness stopped him. Lingg showed witness a copy of the Arbeiter Zeitung and pointed to the word "Ruhe" which he said meant there was to be a meeting and that everything was to be turned upside down.

Forty-Ninth Congress—First Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 21. Mr. Van Wyck, in presenting another batch of Knights of Labor petitions in favor of land bills and the Oklahama bill, read a letter from Joseph Beaumont, chairman of the legislative committee of Knights of Labor, stating that these petitions were genuine and were sent to him either directly or by authority of the persons purporting to have signed them; and further that they were expressly authorized and sanctioned by the grand general executive board of the order in the United States. Three hundred thousand of these petitions he said have been presented to Congress and very nearly 300,000 more were on their way. The great railroad presidents of the country did not need any petitions to influence Congress; they come themselves.

The petitions and several other batches of them from other States were referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Senate at noon proceeded to the consideration of the report on the matter of the election of Senator Payne, and was addressed by Mr. Pugh in advocacy of the position taken by himself and Messrs. Saulsbury, Vance and Eustis, to the effect that there had been no expression of belief or suspicion on the part of any member of the committee to the effect that Mr. Payne was connected in the remotest degree by act or knowledge, with anything wrong, criminal or immoral in his election, and that no further investigation of charge, be made. He criticised the views of the minority, Messrs. Hoar and Frye, and argued that they were in conflict with the precedents of the Senate in former cases of similar character.

Mr. Hoar addressed the Senate in support of the views of himself and Mr. Frye, recommending an investigation of the charges. Such an investigation he argued was due to Senator Payne because it could make it appear that the suspicion, which all the members were so eager to remove, did not rest upon the friends nearest him or upon the State that had so honored him.

Mr. Logan took the floor to reply to the argument of Mr. Hoar and sustain the views expressed in the report signed by himself, Mr. Teller and Mr. Evarts to the effect that an investigation should not be instituted by the Senate and that the committee should be discharged from its further consideration. His argument was very exhaustive and humorous and especially so his handling of Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Mr. Teller followed. He was proceeding to analyze the testimony in the case but gave way to a motion to adjourn, holding the floor, to conclude his remarks to-morrow.

The Senate, at 5.50, adjourned.

House.

Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, called up on a question of privilege the concurrent resolution providing for the final adjournment on the 28th inst.

Mr. Reagan, of Texas, while he expressed his anxiety for the final adjournment, thought the date fixed was too early and that should the resolution be agreed to the House would fail to perform a very important part of its duty. This view was concurred in by several other members.

Mr. Reed of Maine said that the country was satisfied that Congress had had a full trial and that it could do nothing better than to make an attempt at final adjournment. The concurrent resolution was agreed to—145 to 36.

A resolution setting apart Thursday and Saturday of this week for the consideration of the bill for the increase of the navy was adopted—yeas 192, nays 47.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Senate amendment to the river and harbor bill.

After some discussion the committee rose and the Senate amendment having been non-concurred in the bill was sent to a conference.

The inter-State Commerce bill was then taken up. The Senate bill was read at length, together with the amendment reported by the Committee on Commerce, which is to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert the House bill.

Mr. Reagan moved that debate close at 5 o'clock; carried, yeas 204, nays 24. Mr. Reagan then took the floor and delivered an argument in support of the House bill and in portrayal of the necessities which existed for a stringent law for the regulation of inter-State commerce.

At 5 o'clock the House took a recess till 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for general debate on the inter-State Commerce bill.

NEW YORK.

Application Denied

NEW YORK, July 21. The Supreme Court to-day denied the application of the Commissioner of public works Squire for refusing to produce his books and papers for investigation.

Scheme for a Big City.

At a meeting of the Aldermen to-day a resolution was referred to a committee providing for the appointment of a commission to consider the advisability of uniting into one municipality the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Yonkers, Long Island City and adjacent cities. This commission will confer with others from these cities and must report before the meeting of the legislature.

A Man of Seventy Marries a Girl of Nine After Two Weeks' Widowerhood

GREENSBURG, July 21. Clem Bishop, aged 70, was married on Monday to Retta Boston, his ward, aged not over nine. Bishop is a backwoods doctor and preacher, possibly without a diploma or license. His wife died two weeks ago and the neighbors threatened to take from him this girl whom he had adopted. To thwart them he procured a licence and was married. He presented a certificate from the girl to obtain the license that she was 27 years of age. The official who gave the license suspected something was wrong and sent a messenger to recall it, but he reached the place just after the ceremony had been performed.

INSTALLING A CARDINAL.

Imposing Ceremonies in Quebec.

QUEBEC, July 2[illegible]. The weather to-day was all that could be desired for the great festival attending the installation of Cardinal Taschereau. The ancient capital never presented a gayer or more animated appearance. Crowds of strangers had been arriving continually since yesterday, many being from New York, Boston and and other American cities. Flags are flying in every direction and some eighteen magnificent triumphal arches are erected on the route of to-day's procession. The streets, with decorations and bunting,

Presented a Beautiful Appearance.

At 6.30 the streets in the vicinity were impassable. The procession formed and proceeded at 8.30.

Over thirty different societies were represented in the procession, besides members of Parliament, the bench and bar, municipal and commercial bodies and clergy. In the Cardinal's carriage were his eminence and the papal Ablegate. A detachment of papal zouaves acted as body guard. The procession moved to the Jesuit barracks. The Cardinal was greeted all along the route with cheers and respectful salutes of the assembled thousands. The procession halted and his eminence and the bishops proceeded to the kiosk which had been erected on the ground and in the presence of about 20,000 persons. The procession then resumed its march and proceeded to the Basilica amid the booming of a salute of 100 guns fired by the Quebec field artillery.

The service in the church was most imposing. The mass sung was that of Charles XII. The sermon was delivered by Msgr. Gravel, of Nicolet. The ceremonies connected with the Cardinal's installation were opened yesterday in the private chapel of his palace in the presence of the Papal Ablegate and the Noble Guard of the Archbishops of Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Ottawa, St. Boniface, Charlottetown, St. John, N. B., St. Louis, Mo., and New Orleans.

ALBANY'S BI-CENTENNIAL.

Fourth Day's Festivities.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21. The Albanians have entered upon the fourth day of the celebration in honor of the bi-centennial anniversary of their city, and show no disposition to tire of the work. As usual, a national salute of thirty-eight guns welcomed the rising of the sun. As on the preceding day there was to be a procession and the anniversary managers had continued to give it features sufficiently attractive to make every one anxious to see it. The procession was made up of eight divisions. Among those who rode at the head of the line was the Indian Chieftain Joseph. The Burgess Corps acted as escort to the Mayor, members of the city council and city officials, who rode in carriages.

Visitors from Abroad.

Among the visitors were delegates who had come from Holland to take part in the celebration, and members from the Holland Society of New York, accompanied by a committee of the local Holland Society. Following these came uniformed Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Caledonian Societies, the Unconditionalists, and numerous other local and visiting organizations. Among the more noticeable features in line were a band of Caughnawaga Indians and a decorated wagon bearing the first locomotive used on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad. The great feature of the procession however was the parade of firemen. At the grand stand at the park the procession was reviewed by Governor Hill and Mayor Thatcher.

The programme of the second races of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen to-day contained some excellent features and the contests were witnessed by large crowds of people. Rain fell heavily, but when the races were called the weather was all that could have been desired. This evening the prizes won by the successful oarsmen in the regatta were presented them in the Mayor's room, City Hall. Each winner received a handsome individual badge, appropriately inscribed, and in addition the clubs which they represented were given satin banners, silver cups and other trophies.

Ushering in the Anniversary Day

Large as was the number of persons assembled in the streets to witness the procession this forenoon, it was not as large as those who flocked from all quarters to see the historical pageant to-night. Bells were rung, guns fired and whistles blown as a salute to the bi-centennial anniversary of Albany's incorporation as a city. Many singing societies were assembled and on the stroke of the hour of 12 they chorussed a welcome to the day.

The President En-Route for Albany.

WASHINGTON, July 21. The President, accompanied by Secretaries Bayard and Whitney, and Private Secretary Lamont, left Washington this afternoon to participate in the bi-centennial celebration at Albany. The party will be the guests of Gov. Hill. The President will review the procession during the morning and attend the exercises in the afternoon. He will also attend a citizens' reception given in his honor at the Capitol in the evening. He and the others of the party will leave Albany the same evening in time to reach Washington in the forenoon Friday.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Harper's Magazine for August has been received by D. Bugbee & Co.

Officer Arnold took John Feeney, an insane man, to the Insane Hospital this week.

The postoffice box which has been on a corner near the Bangor Exchange will be moved to the one above to-day.

Crews of men are at work all over the city tearing down the bill boards which were erected for the circus posters.

James F. Kimball, Esq., is just finishing a splendid residence in Medway. It will be one of the finest places in that section.

Repairs are being made upon the exterior of the Opera House. A large staging has been erected over the Main street sidewalk.

Mr. Ira Chamberlin of this city, recently built a substantial plank walk around his house, doing the work alone. He is ninety-three years old.

The new facilities for making gas at the Bangor gas works are giving great satisfaction and the improvement in the quality of the light has been very marked.

Mr. George W. Sullivan has leased the store on Main street now occupied by Mrs. L. W. Atkins, and will occupy it for his fur business the coming fall and winter.

The steamer Dolphin built in this city three years ago and which has been owned by the Bass Harbor Packing Company has been sold to parties in Providence, R. I. The Dolphin is a first class boat.

The New Hampshire Club which went down to Bar Harbor Tuesday will return to Boston to-day. Their special passes through Bangor on its way west at 11.30 A. M.

One of the sights in this city yesterday afternoon was two gentlemen out driving with a young bear sitting on his haunches in the bottom of the carriage with his head over the dasher after the fashion of a pet dog.

There are now about eighteen inches of water running over the Water Works dam. That is about the usual amount at this season of the year although in some summers water flows only over the lowest point of the structure.

The steamer Queen City leaves her wharf at eight o'clock this morning for Hughes' Point with the Reform Club and its friends. It is hoped that a large party will make the trip as the occasion will be a pleasant one. Good music will be provided.

A special meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the vestry of the Hammond street church this afternoon at three o'clock. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as important business is to come before the meeting.

A party of ladies and gentlemen, comprising about twenty or twenty-five persons, will go out to Phillips' Pond this morning to pass the day. The steamer Winonah has been engaged for the trip.

The confectionary dealers and manufacturers of this city expect to agree upon a uniform price for their goods at a meeting at A. B. Peck's store next Saturday. They will also endeavor to fix a uniform standard for the manufacture.

Prof. C. J. H. Ropes, with a pleasant party comprising some fifteen persons, went out to Pushaw in Mr. C. A. Winchester's commodious barge yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a pleasant picnic. They returned in the afternoon.

Perry's new opera house at Presque Isle is now nearly completed. The stagings have been removed and the structure presents a fine appearance, reflecting credit not only upon its owner but upon the town.

An unoccupied house on the Indian Island at Old Town and owned by Joseph Nicolar, was entirely burned Tuesday night. Other buildings near by were saved through the exertions of the firemen. The loss will be about $400.

Mr. Frank H. Drummond is making excellent progress in the work on his fine new residence on Third street. The frame was raised to its position yesterday. The house will be a great addition to the appearance of that part of the street.

Mr. E. H. Gerrish, the rod maker and canoe builder in this city, is receiving an unusually large number of orders for his goods from other States. Parties in San Francisco have sent to him to have one bass and two trout rods made. Mr. Gerrish has just shipped two canvas canoes to Augusta and is building one now for a gentleman in Bar Harbor.

The hardware dealers say that the steel wire nails are fast taking the place of the common cut nails in the market. The new style has many advantages, foremost among them being that it will not split and very rarely breaks. In five years it is predicted that not a cut nail will be found in the market. The new nails are made in all sizes like the others.

Yesterday noon as the steamer Katahdin was about to leave her wharf and the deck hands were hauling in the gang plank the end of the latter slipped as it passed from the boat and went into the water. One of the men followed the plank and enjoyed a very cool bath. He was hauled in and the boat proceeded.

There was a lawn party at the residence of R. R. Files, Esq., on Ohio street, Tuesday evening. It was given in honor of Miss Millie March, of Trenton, who is visiting there, and was quite largely attended. Those present pronounced the occasion most pleasant and enjoyable.

Mr. David A. Garland, at his farm on Stillwater avenue, has raised over fifty bushels of gooseberries this season, all of which have been or will be sold in this market. This is probably the largest quantity of gooseberries raised by any one farmer in this section. Mr. Garland will also secure from his trees fully 125 bushels of Arctic plums. He has been very successful in the cultivation of all varieties of fruit.

Mr. R. J. Riley of this city has taken the contract to slate the new Washington County court house, and leaves for Machias with his crew Saturday morning. Mr. Riley has just done two very creditable jobs on public buildings. One was the Bowdoin gymnasium and the other the court house at Ellsworth, and the Washington County Commissioners may be sure of some good work.

INTERESTED IN THE FISHING. Tuesday several well known Bangor young ladies and gentlemen were fishing from a boat at Pushaw Lake. They were very intently engaged in the sport but suddenly one of the gentlemen noticed a peculiar object floating on the pond a long distance from the boat. At the same time it was discovered that one of the ladies had lost her hat and the party accordingly rowed to the object noticed which was found to be the lost hat. There can be no doubt but that fishing at Pushaw is the most fascinating sport in the world after such proof as that shown above.

The roan mare Zara owned by T. H. Nye, of Brewer, made quite a fast mile considering the condition of the track over Maplewood yesterday morning. The time as taken by a number of spectators was 2.39. Zara is fifteen hands and one inch in height and weighs 950 pounds. She was sired by Young Buchanan, dam by Gen. McLellan, and her owner expects her to trot fast this season. She will probably be trotted at the coming fair.

R. B. Capen, Esq., of Augusta, Grand Master of the Maine Lodge of Odd Fellows, will arrive in this city on the train this afternoon. This evening he will meet the three lodges of Odd Fellows at their hall for the purpose of imparting instruction in regard to the secret work of the order. He will probably be assisted by others of the grand officers. After the meeting a collation will be tendered.

A man named George P. Gould of Houlton, has been in jail in this city for some time past for selling liquor without a United States license. Gould was tired of the confinement without a trial and could not furnish bonds. It was accordingly decided to take him before Judge Webb of Portland, for sentence, he agreeing to plead guilty. United States Marshal Harmon came here yesterday and left on the Flying Yankee for Portland with the prisoner.

The County Commissioners adjourned their meeting last night. Yesterday they made an examination of the new Mount Hope road and returned enthusiastic in their praise of the road and Commissioner Page's work upon it. They say that the large culvert there is the best piece of work of the kind that they ever saw and that the amount of money expended in the improvements was much less than was to have been expected.

DEATH OF SAMUEL DAY. One week ago last night Mr. Samuel Day, of Veazie, who had been at work in his hay field, did not come to his house as usual, and after awhile his friends became alarmed and made up quite a large party to search for him. He was not found until ten o'clock, when the party suddenly came upon him lying unconscious in the field. It was supposed that he had experienced either a sunstroke or a paralytic shock, but which was decided to be the case our informant was unable to state. Mr. Day was taken up and carried to his home. He recovered consciousness, but continued to fail very rapidly until yesterday afternoon, when he died.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR VISIT. The special train with Lewiston Commandery, K. T., on board will pass through Bangor at 10.40 next Tuesday forenoon, arriving at Moosehead Lake early in the afternoon. Upon the return Thursday it will arrive in Bangor at 1.10 P. M. and here the Commandery will alight. The Sir Knights of St. John's Commandery will probably turn out in uniform and escort the visitors with their ladies to Masonic Hall. It has been decided to have the spread in the banquet room of the hall, none of the city hotels having a dining room sufficiently large to accommodate the party. The visitors will remain here four or five hours.

HE DROVE TO DOVER. Tuesday forenoon a man named Anson King hired a horse at J. H. Nash's stable in Orono saying that he wished to drive to Veazie. Instead of doing so he drove in the direction of Old Town and from there to Dover. The team not being returned at night one of Mr. Nash's men notified City Marshal Whitney of this city, and he traced it to Dover and telegraphed Deputy Sheriff Z. B. Poole of that town, to look it up and arrest King. Yesterday forenoon the Marshal received a despatch from Sheriff Poole stating that the team awaited its owner and King was in custody. This morning Officer Allen will go up to Dover to bring King to Bangor.

ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS. Penobscot Division, No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, of this city, is now in a very flourishing condition. It has just removed from Lewis' Block to the fine hall and adjoining rooms in Kenduskeag Block, formerly occupied by the Pine Tree Wheel Club. A large number of the members joined the State Relief Insurance Association connected with the order, last evening. The Division has unanimously voted to make an excursion this year, but to what place is not yet decided. The members intend, however, to have the excursion carried out with some new and novel programme, and will no doubt take a large crowd out of Bangor. They generally favor a trip on the railroad.

A RETURN ENGAGEMENT. The Boston Ideal Colored Troubadours and Jubilee Singers, who appeared here on the 11th and 12th, are to give two more of their pleasing entertainments on this and to-morrow evenings (Thursday and Friday) at City Hall. The singers gave the most perfect satisfaction here before and were greeted with crowded houses. They will no doubt repeat on this occasion their former success. No admission will be charged, but every one is asked to contribute at least ten cents as they enter. The management has decided to reserve a portion of the seats for ladies and gentlemen and ladies without escorts, which may be had at the box office for only ten cents extra.

MILITIA MATTERS. The pay rolls of the several militia companies for services at the encampment at Bangor have been presented to the Governor and Council, for payment and the Adjutant General has sent each company a check for the amount due them.——Several of the militia officers left yesterday to attend the Second Brigade muster of the Massachusetts Militia at South Framingham. Among them were Gen. Brown and Capt. Dow of Portland, Col. H. L. Mitchell of Bangor, Dr. F. C. Thayer, Surgeon of the Second Regiment, and Col. Boothby and Col. Burrill of the Governor's Staff and Capt. Choate of the Augusta company.——The Adjutant General has issued an order dishonorably discharging several privates, including one from the Jameson Guards in this city. The cause was disgraceful behavior at the late muster.

Base Ball Notes.

The game this afternoon will probably draw a large crowd. The Madison Parks will come up from Belfast on the boat and game will be called at three o'clock. It was thought last night that Plummer, the new change pitcher, and Soule would be the battery for the home team. In that case Oxley will play left field. The grand stand will be ready for occupancy to-day, and everything will be in fine condition for the enjoyment of the game.

Base ball is booming in Rockland, and the victory of the home team over the Madison Parks, Tuesday, in a splendidly played game, will aid in the feeling. Sanford and Underwood of the Bates are the Rockland battery, Thayer of the Bates plays second, and Hull of last year's Queen Citys third. Sanford is Captain. They are preparing to give the Bangors a close game next Monday and the citizens are to give the visitors a warm reception. The Courier-Gazette says: "The Bangors are all salaried players and the best nine in the State. We do not expect our boys to beat them, but we shall play a very strong team and do not think it will be a walk-over.

Yesterday afternoon Mason who has just been released from the Bangors received a telephone message from Rockland to come here and play a few games and he left on the evening train. There are no better unengaged players in Maine than Mason and the Rocklands would do well to sign him.

The Randolphs of Boston have a date here for August 28th.

It is probable that the Bangors will soon go to Portland to play the Portlands an exhibition game.

Plummer practised with Soule yesterday both forenoon and afternoon. Both did finely and they will, no doubt, make a first class battery.

Weston has photographed Manager Parker and the nine in a group and displays a fine picture in the window of Taney's drug store. It is 24x18 and unusually good for a group picture.

Funeral of Mattie L. Bicknell.

The funeral of Mattie L. Bicknell, who was accidentally shot last Sunday, occurred yesterday afternoon. At 1.45 prayers were offered by Rev. G. B. Ilsley at the residence of her parents at East Hampden and the remains were brought to this city. At three o'clock the funeral services were held at the Columbia street Baptist church, which was filled with people who deeply sympathized with the bereaved family. The floral display was profuse and very beautiful. Among the designs was a crown from the Sunday School, a star raised on a pedestal from the class to which the deceased belonged. There were many other rich designs presented by friends.

The service opened with an invocation by Rev. A. S. Ladd of the Pine street Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Ilsley read selections from the Scriptures and made a touching prayer, and Rev. Mr. Ladd pronounced the benediction. A choir composed of Mrs. O. P. Webber, Miss Annie Low and Messrs. A. G. Ray and G. W. E. Barrows, sang during the services several favorite hymns of the deceased. Deacon J. A. Wallis conducted the funeral, and the bearers were F. G. Gorham, G. W. Avery, F. E. Pottle and F. L. Hodgkins. Thirteen members of the Sunday School class to which the deceased belonged, with its teacher, Miss Abbie E. Low, accompanied the remains to Mount Hope, each bearing a floral offering to be placed upon the casket.

FROM MAINE TO 'FRISCO.

Departure of the Grand Army Excursionists—The Plans for a Delightful Trip

Quite a number of people were at the Western trains yesterday to witness the departure of the Grand Army excursionists for San Francisco. Several from this section, whose names were given in the WHIG, had gone previous to yesterday and will join the party in Boston to-day. Those leaving by yesterday morning's train were Dr. A. C. Hamlin and son, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Foster and Mr. J. W. Strange, of Bangor, and Mr. J. F. Whitcomb, of Ellsworth. On the Yankee, besides the Dover party noted in another column, were George H. Boardman and seven ladies, and D. M. Gardner and daughter, all of Calais, J. W. Burke, of Lee, W. C. Manning, of Newport, A. H. Nickerson, of East Corinth, Mrs. John C. Cook, Capt. A. E. Fernald and wife, of Winterport, and A. M. Robinson, Jr., and wife, of this city. Ticket Agent Benson was very busy preparing the tickets and caring for the party, which started in fine spirits, and the most of them intend to be absent until September.

This morning at 8.40 the entire Maine delegation accompanied by Governor Robie and Department Commander Lane and Staff will leave Portland for San Francisco, Comrade Charles A. Coombs of Sedgwick Post, No. 4, of Bath, General Manager. A neat and pretty badge has been adopted for the occasion. Its face is polished nickel and it is three inches in length by about three-quarters in width. On the face is engraved the word "Maine" in dead silver. The headquarters car will probably be elaborately decorated.

The route to be pursued is an excellent one and doubtless many readers of the WHIG would be interested to know the details of the delightful trip to be made by the party. They leave Boston at 4.30 this afternoon in a special train over the Fitchburg Railway. The Hoosac tunnel is reached late in the afternoon and at eight o'clock to-morrow morning the party will reach Niagara Falls and remain there until 4.30 P. M., when they leave by the southern division of the Grand Trunk. The next stop is at Chicago, from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. on Saturday.

At Council Bluffs Sunday the train stops from eleven to twelve o'clock noon and the next stop will be at Denver from 7.30 Monday morning to 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. Next Thursday at 11.30 A. M. the party reach Salt Lake City and remain there until 7.30 P. M. No other stop of any length will be made, San Francisco being reached one week from Sunday at 7.00 P. M. The last part of the journey will be made over the Union Pacific. At every point where stops are made an attractive programme for the entertainment of the party has been arranged. The headquarters of the Department of Maine in San Francisco will be at the Hotel Grand.

A Pleasant Occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooper Chase, of this city entertained a party of relatives and friends at their cottage on their extensive hay farm, some five miles out of the city, on Tuesday last. Their guests to the number of about twenty-five were given seats on the barn-floor between two mows of newly cut hay which was especially sweet and fragrant. Among those present were Mrs. Dr. Paine and Miss A. [illegible]. Giddings, of Boston, Miss Cooley, an assistant teacher in Wellesley College, of Massachusetts, and also Mr. Collins, of Boston, a brother of Mrs. Chase, who came unexpectedly and added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. Soon the dinner hour came and the company was conducted to the fine carriage house which had been beautifully trimmed and here plates were laid for some thirty persons. They found a splendid hot dinner, the tables being loaded with all of the delicacies of the season. The spread was prepared under the direction of Mrs. Chase. After the appetites of all had been satisfied some hours were spent in offering congratulations, resolutions, short speeches and in reading and reciting poems, interspersed with jokes, conundrums, charades, etc. Some indulged in tramping over the fields. All returned to the city delighted with the rustic manner of spending the day.

Maine Experiment Station.

BULLETIN NO. 9.

All the samples of fertilizers analyzed in 1886 have been selected by station officers. Three samples have not been secured of every brand so far this year as required by law, in some cases because it has been difficult to find the fertilizers on sale in three places, in other instances because the fertilizers are not sold very much through agents and so are found largely distributed only in the hands of consumers, and partly because of lack of time before issuing the Station report.

The table which immediately follows gives the average results of all the analyses for 1886. The comparative money values, as calculated by the Station in the manner previously explained, have much more significance than the excess of selling price over valuation, because the selling price varies in some instances according to the quantity of fertilizer sold, conditions of payment, location, etc.

There is one point in connection with the excess of selling price, however, to which attention should be called, which is that the same excess of selling price over valuation in two cases does not necessarily mean that one fertilizer is sold as cheaply as the other. This can be illustrated as follows: A's fertilizer is sold for forty dollars per ton, and values at thirty-two dollars. B's fertilizer sells for twenty-four dollars per ton, and has a valuation of sixteen dollars. The excess of selling price is eight dollars in both cases, but this is only twenty-five per cent. of the money value of the ingredients in A's fertilizer, while it is fifty per cent. of a similar valuation of B's fertilizer. In other words, B is charging the farmers twice as much as A for handling a given quantity of plant food.

Those who are interested to consult this table cannot fail to notice the low valuation of the several brands of the so-called "Common Sense Fertilizers," and the large excess of selling prices. In one instance, that of the Common Sense Fertilizer No. 2, the cost is $19.45 per ton more than the price for which the same amount of plant food can be purchased in the markets, the excess of cost being considerable greater than the Station valuation. Common Sense Fertilizer No. 1 makes nearly as bad a showing. The figures of this table show the pounds of the various ingredients in a hundred pounds of the fertilizer:

A New Yorker's Outing.

HOW AN ADVENTUROUS BOOKKEEPER ENJOYED HIMSELF IN THE WOODS.

[New York Sun.]

A young man whose nose had the general color of boiled lobster, and whose hands were decorated with swelled fingers, plaster and rags, strolled into the Hoffman House yesterday and sank into a chair.

"New York's the best summer watering-place I know of," he said slowly, as he managed to work one knee over the other and leaned very far back in his chair. "It is the pursuit of pleasure that uses a man up. Out of town you have to work like a Trojan to find revelry and glee, but here it comes right to you. Another thing and one a man does not take into consideration, is the amount of fun that can be had by spending the money in New York which you use on a summer tour. I always come home clean broke after my vacation."

"Where did you go this year?"

"I struck a new line and went off into the woods where I could enjoy hunting and fishing. I'm a city man born and bred, you know, and I've always wanted to go off and have some genuine sport. I consulted our bookkeeper, who goes up to Canada fishing every year, and who is a recognized sportsman, and we made out a list of the indispensable things. He sold me an old gun of his, with case, cartridges and belt. I'll make out a list of the things I bought."

There was considerable figuring on the back of a bill of fare, and then the following was laid on the table for inspection:

Gun, case, cartridges, etc.	$31 00
Sectional fishing rod,	12 00
Trout-flies, pickerel spoon-hooks, lines, reel, etc.,	6 00
Cork helmet and cloth cap,	4 50
Three flannel shirts,	9 00
Pair heavy water-tight boots,	8 00
Canvas shoes, belt, etc.,	10 00
Canvas shooting-coat,	6 00
Two base balls,	2 50
Two bats,	1 00
Total,	$90 00

"That, you see," resumed the assistant bookkeeper, "knocked a $100 bill higher than a kite. I took the balls and bat along at the suggestion of the bookkeeper, because he said it would be great fun to pitch and catch about sundown in the country. I traveled over a hundred miles north, and then drove sixteen miles in a buckboard wagon from the station into the country. It was a beautiful spot. The only trouble was that it was about five miles from everything. The first evening I got out a ball and the farmer's bow-legged son batted it instantly 500 feet into a neighboring marsh. Then I unpacked the other ball. It was the regulation professional article, you know, hard as a rock and done up in tin foil, tissue paper and cotton. I told the farmer's small son that I wouldn't throw it hard to him, and he said I needn't be afraid. I pitched him an easy one, and he returned the ball with a terrific whirl that sent it twisting out of my hands, carroming on my chin, and swirling up in the air. My hands felt as though they had been jumped on by a trip hammer, and when I socked the ball into the youngster with all my might he reached out with his left and plucked it out of the air with three fingers. Instead of stopping there my pride urged me on, and we kept at it for an hour. Then three of us played one-old cat, and I took a ball hot off the bat with this finger with the rag around it. After that I retired, and didn't touch the ball again. These things on my hands are souvenirs.

The following morning I was waked at four, got a lukewarm breakfast and a shallow lunch in a basket, and was driven seven miles into the woods to a trout stream. They told me that the only way to bag the festive trout was to wade right in and down him, and I did so. The hired man drove away, remarking that he would return at four o'clock that afternoon and fetch me. It was a blistering hot day. The willows, weeds, bushes and underbrush hung over the banks of the stream so that the only way to get at the water was to walk in the middle of the stream. Here it was up to my knees, but I went at it, and worked my way along, all doubled up, and with streams of perspiration running down my face, while my feet were cold. Finally I hooked a six-inch trout, but the brush was so low that I couldn't manage my pole, and he got away. I worked harder than ever, and finally captured five little fellows. I sat down to luncheon, and, after another wet tramp, a scratched face, and one more little trout, I found myself on the road. I waited a solid hour for that hired man, and then got so disgusted that I tramped down the whole seven miles of the turnpike. I threw the fish away long before I had gone a mile, and when I finally got to the farm-house I was the most pitiable object on the face of the earth. I staggered up to the hired man and asked him why in thunder he hadn't come for me, and he pointed to the sun and showed me that it was only a little past noon. Then I went to my room and went to bed; but it was a feather bed, and, great Scott, how hot! So I got up, took a towel bath, went down stairs, and started out with the gun. A man gets so desperately lonely in the country that he'll drag himself around, no matter how tired he is. I was in the middle of a blazing hot ten-acre lot when the farmer came running after me.

"'Where are you going with that gun?' he says.

"'Going to drop a bird.'

"'Drop nothin'. It's against the law to shoot anything before the Fourth of July, and after that you can only shoot woodcock—which,' he added, 'is extremely scarce in these parts.'

"So, gentlemen," continued the young tourist, "I went back to the house, put a spoon hook on my trout line, and after supper I walked to a distant pond to troll for pickerel. It was a very heavy hook and I had lots of line out, so I broke the top joint on the first cast. Curiously enough this last disaster did not disturb me in the least. Indeed, I viewed it with considerable satisfaction, for it forced me to the conclusion that New York's a pretty decent sort of a place after all. My few days in the country involved an outlay of $150. Think of the fun a man could have around town with a hundred and a half in his clothes!"

Photography in Horsemanship.

The camera has destroyed many agreeable fancies regarding the motions of "that noble animal," the horse. The charge no longer dashes into the thickest of the fray by "a series of quick and graceful bounds," but ignobly propels its weight over the "tin ned fore-legs used like the spokes of a wheel." The leap of the racing thoroughbred, by which it was supposed to cover a distance of twenty feet, proves to be but a momentary interval between the time the horse leaves the ground from a stilt-like fore-leg until the weight is received by the opposite hind leg, in which the animal is carried through a space that is seldom much greater than the length of its rider's whip. The "clever hunter" no longer takes a four-foot hedge "in the stride of its gallop," for we know now that such a spring cannot be taken from the fore-legs, and that, like the least clever of its race, it must clear the obstacle by a spring from the hindquarters. Even in the slower and more languid movements, although in these we do not find so many disappointments, the most graceful animal has positions that are far from graceful; and after an inspection of the "instantaneous" photographs of the horse in motion, we are disposed to speak more respectfully of the mode of locomotion adopted by the swan on a turnpike road.

On the other hand, these pictures have compensations to offer in place of the illusions they have dispelled. It is important that we should know how the horse moves in the different paces, as such knowledge suggests the way in which these paces may be improved. It is important that we should know how the horse breaks from one pace into another, in order that such changes may be encouraged or repressed. It is also important that we should know how the horse leaps, what are its motions in its resistances, how it takes the leads in the gallop, and where there are suspicions of unsafe action, how it brings its feet to the ground. All of these things, and more, we can learn with certainty only from the photographs, and they can be of aid even in teaching how to sit upon and control the horse.

Whether Muybridge, who conducted the experiments undertaken upon so large a scale by Gov. Stanford, or the German author Adam, whose work appeared in 1882, or some unnamed genius, was the first to photograph the moving horse we cannot say. But, by reason of the completeness of the apparatus employed, the number of horses that were at his disposal, and the great variety of pictures that were published, the work of the first named is by far the most valuable and satisfactory. A battery of twenty-four cameras, with intervals of one foot, gave Muybridge pictures of the horse in almost every possible position in nearly every pace and action. The walk, the trot, the canter, the racing pace, jumping, etc., with the peculiarities of motion that might be found among a great number of horses, were faithfully and minutely rendered.

But it is strange that in such a collection of pictures there is not a single example of the ordinary gallop of three beats—the pace that lies between the canter and racing speed—or of the changes of lead in the gallop. Quick-acting shutters are now so cheap and so easily procured that photographing the moving horse is of every-day occurrence, and the gallop of three beats is as well known as the walk or the trot. It was not until March of the present year that photographs showing the changes of lead in the gallop were secured, when a number of pictures representing the horse in various positions of the movement were taken in Germany.

We have shown some uses of photography in horsemanship, but it would be difficult to indicate what the limits of such uses may be in the future. As we have suggested, the defective action of a horse can be readily detected in a photograph, and perhaps the day may come when the dealer will be required to furnish a picture of the animal he offers for sale, as he would now give a "warranty." The fox-hunter compelled through age and honorable wounds to give up his favorite sport may console himself by gazing upon the portrait of himself and his horse as they were caught by the camera in the act of clearing the park-palings that pounced the field. To the rider, and to the trainer the photographs of the horse in motion must prove of great value, and many things in the art of horsemanship which heretofore could have been arrived at only after long-continued, tentative experiments will easily be made clear through the aid of the photographer.—London Saturday Review.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your Cuticura Remedies. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was little more than a year old of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the Cuticura Remedies, using the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the Cuticura Resolvent his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the Cuticura Remedies and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,
612 E. Clay St., Bloomington Ill.

May 9, 1885.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

Three Summer Dangers.

Three great dangers menace the traveller at every turn. They are climate, food and water. To guard against them requires judgment, abstinence and Sanford's Ginger.

This unrivalled household panacea and travelling companion is sure to check any disturbance of the bowels, instantly relieve cramps and pains, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in water drunk, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, prevent cause of cholera morbus, break up colds and fevers, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

SANFORD'S GINGER is a delicious combination of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, and is the finest extract of ginger ever compounded in the history of medicine.

As a summer drink, with hot or cold water, or milk, or added to lemonade, effervescent draughts or mineral waters Sanford's Ginger forms a refreshing and invigorating beverage, unequalled in simplicity, while free from alcoholic reaction.

Beware of worthless "gingers," offensively urged by mercenary druggists, when you ask for and desire

STATE OF MAINE.

PENOBSCOT, ss. Supreme Judicial Court in Vacation.

In the matter of the petition of the Trustees of the Orono Savings Bank and the Bank Examiner for a reduction of the deposit accounts in equity.

Your petitioners, the trustees of the Orono Savings Bank, a corporation established by law and having its place of business at Orono, Penobscot County and State of Maine, respectfully represent: That on the ninth day of October, A. D. 1877, on petition, notice and hearing, by its proper decree this Honorable Court reduced the deposit account of each depositor in said Bank to the sum of seventy-five per centum of its then present value; and said Trustees further represent that the Treasurer of said Bank has kept a true and accurate account of all sums received for the assets of said corporation held by it at the time of filing the aforesaid original petition and that a larger sum has been realized from said assets than the value estimated by the Court and that on the twenty-sixth day of January, A. D. 1882, on petition, notice and hearing, by its proper decree this Honorable Court ordered a pro rata dividend of such excess, to depositors in said Bank at the time of the filing of aforesaid original petition, and the full amount of such excess having been divided in accordance with the said decree.

Wherefore your petitioners pray that this Honorable Court will prescribe a time at which said Treasurer shall render to the Court a final account and will further order due notice thereof to all parties interested and make such further order concerning the closing of said accounts as is provided by law.

Dated at Orono, this 7th day of June, A. D. 1886.

(Signed) SAM'L LIBBEY, RICHARD LORD, GEO. W. LUNT, HENRY C. POWERS, ALBERT WHITE, Trustees.

BANGOR, June 16th, 1886.

Ordered, That a notice of the pendency of the foregoing petition be given to all persons interested, by publishing an attested copy thereof in any daily newspaper printed in Bangor in the County of Penobscot at least ten times before the first Tuesday of October, A. D. 1886, that they may then appear before the Supreme Judicial Court, to be held at Bangor within and for the County of Penobscot, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer thereof should not be granted; the last publication to be at least seven days before said term of Court.

(Signed) JOHN A. PETERS, Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court.

A true copy of petition and order thereon.

Attest: CHARLES F. SWEET, Clerk.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, Guardian of Susan E. Robinson, a devisee of minor heir of Thomas Robinson late of Boston, Mass., deceased, respectfully represents that said minor is seized and possessed of the following described Real Estate, viz: One undivided tenth part of certain real estate situate in Hampden, in said County, same conveyed to said Thomas Robinson by Ebenezer Coe by deed dated Aug. 21, 1874, subject to the widow's right of dower therein, it being the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County, Volume 44, page 35.

That it would be for the benefit of said minor that said Real Estate should be sold, and the proceeds thereof put out at interest, or otherwise used for her benefit.

He therefore prays that license may be granted him to sell and convey the above described Real Estate at public or private sale, according to the requirement of law.

TRUE'S PIN WORM ELIXIR!

A WONDERFUL REMEDY!

MARVELOUS IN ITS EFFECTS!

Mothers, save your children from the painful and fatal effects of pin worms, by giving

DR. JOHN F. TRUE'S

JUSTLY CELEBRATED

Pin Worm Elixir!

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

It is claimed to be the safest, most potent and most effectual remedy known for this child-killing Disease. As a cathartic vermifuge it has no equal. It expels all kinds of worms, and in fact all the creatures that infest the bowels of suffering humanity, are triumphantly expelled by this wonderful remedy. Testimony in its favor comes in from all sections where it is known. It is most effectual in removing from the system those terrible complaints called Worms, but children who have been Veal and Puny for years, are at once improved and restored to health by its use. It is a mild and gentle laxative, it is a corrective of the greatest value. It is purely vegetable and cannot be beat. It has also expelled several hundred eight inches in length, is spotted, belongs to a water species and looks like a veritable young alligator. Fits caused by worms and indigestion.

BUY IT AND TRY IT.

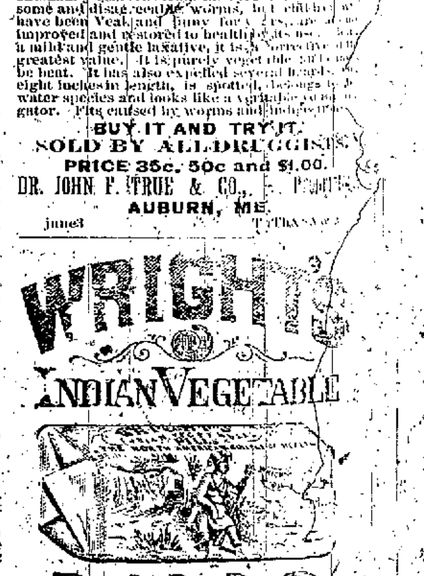

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 35c, 50c and $1.00.
